

Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nurdan YILDIRIM is a 22-year mechanical engineer with academic and industrial experience and currently head of Mechanical Engineering Department at Yaş ar University, Izmir, Turkey. In 2002 and 2005, she attended a six-month “United Nations Geothermal Training Programme” at Reykjavik, Iceland, and a nine-month “Diploma Course on Environmental and Applied Fluid Dynamics Department” at Von Karman Institute for Fluid Dynamics, Belgium, respectively. She is a certified Energy Manager and has Professional Engineer Certificate on HVAC-R System and Heat Insulation. Her main research interests are thermodynamics, renewable energy systems, energy efficiency and management, indoor air quality.